

EDIT1: So from what Dicksponge told me, Vii's defense to Kero was more recent than I thought, as Vii 'played ball for Kero' on May 27, 2020, during a call when people 'give shit to Umbrus' (he said Dweby in the tweet, but that part is wrong). Although that was in a call (which meant that we can't provide any source for this, though I'm trying to see if another witness can vouch for Dicksponge), this could mean that Vii's action towards defending Kero is more recent.

<https://twitter.com/dickspongert/status/1293611883535249423?s=20>

EDIT2: While that the second witness, Bennet the Human, didn't exactly remember what Vii said about Kero, he did vaguely remember that Kero was discussed in that call. Take that part with a grain of salt (as the convo happened at 2am during that time), but if true, then...again...this is more relevant with Vii defending Kero.

ORIGINAL:

So...considering the fact that I've been seeing people calling out Vii Omega for grooming someone who was underage (and for the right reason, may I add, I don't want people to twist this) as well as their overall experiences with Vii in a negative light, I wanted to share one overall experience with Vii about how Vii might have been defending a popular zoophile by the name of Kero the Wolf. There was another incident involving how mean-spirited he was towards checking a script that I had on Nihilistic Snake's commentary on James Allsup (or really any other incident about how mean-spirited he was), or about how Vii thinks that it was okay to say the n word (This was on twitter, and the closest thing about it was with how people went ahead and argued with him on it (I believe Dicksponge was one of them), and he casually said that saying the n word is okay because if you think that if it's offensive, then you'll let the word gain more power (Sadly don't have that evidence, but if I remember correctly, Dicksponge via on Twitter might back me up here)), but that's considered to be for another story, really.

For those who don't know, Kero the Wolf was a Furry YouTuber who was founded and interviewed by Shane Dawson and was one of the more popular Furry YouTubers out there. In September of 2018, he was caught interacting with a group of people in a group chat about discussing acts of bestiality and necrophilia. Kero denied that this happened by claiming that he was hacked, but then later admitted to Kothroix via in an interview about how, and I quote, "he does have an interest in some aspects of zoophilia." He disappeared, and never returned until he tried to 'make things right'.

Or so I thought.

As it turns out, Vii had been contacting Kero about the overall incident back in December of 2018, and he was friends with him ever since. From what Vii told me, Vii talked to Kero via by sending him a DM on Twitter, and then the conversation moved over to Telegram.

He then told me in a Discord conversation about this, and then I've asked a question about how he felt about the situation, even with the info that he told me, and especially with the fact of what he said about how he now only looks, but never does. (EDIT 3: I should also mention that Vii said that Kero was guilty of the stuff that he did of the distant past, and while although that I agree that it's in the past (if we're going off by this video made by Archive the Wolf via here: <https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=bswfYeYaDk8> (as well as other info that this user gives out like this tweet:

<https://twitter.com/KeroArchive/status/1252003122681131014?s=20>, then it could be between 2012-2017), as mentioned later, Kero might relapse, and Vii DOES know about that overall distant past. This meant that, while Vii does know and that he is aware of it, he's defending Kero about the overall situation because 'at least it's not in the now'.) I've said, 'I mean like...good for him for only looking at it and never really doing it, but it's like...I just don't really feel that it's kinda right,' to which I wanted to clarify something.

Yeah, good for him for at least not doing it, but it's still fucked up for him to just look at it, and if anything, idk if he might be having a folder of beastility or necrophilia on his computer that we might not be aware of (which if I'm correct on this, is considered to be illegal). Also, even if it's for 'just fantasy', he might even relapse again and potentially practice beastility again (or according to what Vii said, was how the "logs are heavily edited to cherry pick certain bad things here and there, and some parts are forged".)

Also, I said that I was not mad at Vii as well as with me being astonished with him contacting him, and although it's true to this day, that's not the full truth. Even though I want to be mad at Vii, I actually felt uncomfortable. I felt uncomfortable with the fact that, even with how Kero said that there were some truths in the Kothorix video, Vii managed to talk to him and tried to defend him, especially with some of the wording that he said. If for whatever reason that what Vii said is true, Vii brushing it off like 'oh, at least he's not doing it, it's just fantasy' is still not an excuse, as Kero is still practicing his disgusting habit by just looking at (and potentially saving via on his computer) the art that someone makes, or just imagining that he was doing it.

Anyways, I've then decided to ask Vii two questions: Is it actually true that the police are looking at this, and did he say anything about looking for help, if he tries to find one/can afford one? Of course, the police investigation was real, but the 'looking for help' one got my eye. Kero never mentioned about getting help, but Vii wanted to help him out.

By adding him to a private server that Vii made called The Play Pen...without giving us a chance to vote.

One of the rules of The Play Pen was that in order to join the server, you must get a majority of yes's from people within that server. However, considering that he joined in without a vote puts a red flag for me. I get that Vii wanted to have a 'support group' for Kero, but to have a sexual predator towards animals that may or may not relapse again felt...unsettling for me...especially if some of those conversations may or may not pop up within the server (they weren't, though the closest thing was that Kero vented a lot about how he felt betrayed by the furry community). Not only that, but within the Play Pen chat, Vii said in the chat that he was very adamant to bring Kero in the chat, so even if we wanted to say no, Vii went along with it.

And before anyone asks, I did talk to Kero himself, but if I remember correctly, I only joined in a call with the people in The Play Pen where we greeted him via only saying a few words and not in a one-on-one conversation with him. I haven't added him as a friend on Discord, I haven't talked to him in DM's, and I don't think that I would feel comfortable with doing so with any of those two actions, even as a means of 'getting info out of him'. If there were some other conversations that I had on that server, then they were only considered to be small talk and nothing else as, again, I didn't feel comfortable with wanting to talk to him further.

Before anyone takes this the wrong way for whatever reason, I'm not saying that Vii is a zoophile himself. At the very worst, he's a sexual predator that groomed an underaged teen and how Neko Koda described how Vii tried to keep having sex with her as well as how she was being pressured into a polyamorus relationship that she didn't feel comfortable with, and at best, he's transphobic with telling me that 'Jonie was afraid of telling me because I'm gay, therefore Jonie's homophobic'. Not only that, but I don't have the overall information that Vii is, so at the very worst, I would be outright wrong with this info. What I am saying, however, is that there's the potential of him being a zoophilist apologist. With the way that he was trying to defend Kero, about how "As long as it is fantasy, that's all that matters to me" kind of rhetoric, and about how there has been some contradictions in not only in Kothorix's video, but also in Ashley Zoe Fox's video about the subject, I personally think that Kero is at 100% fault as well as Vii for defending him at the time.

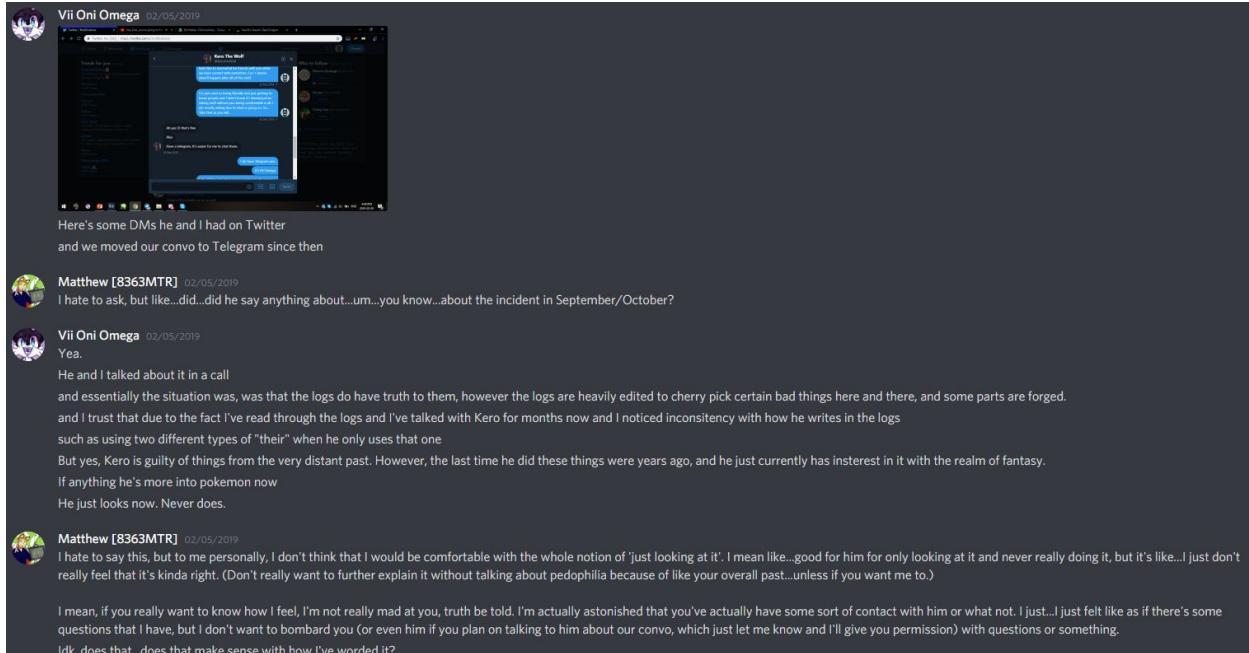

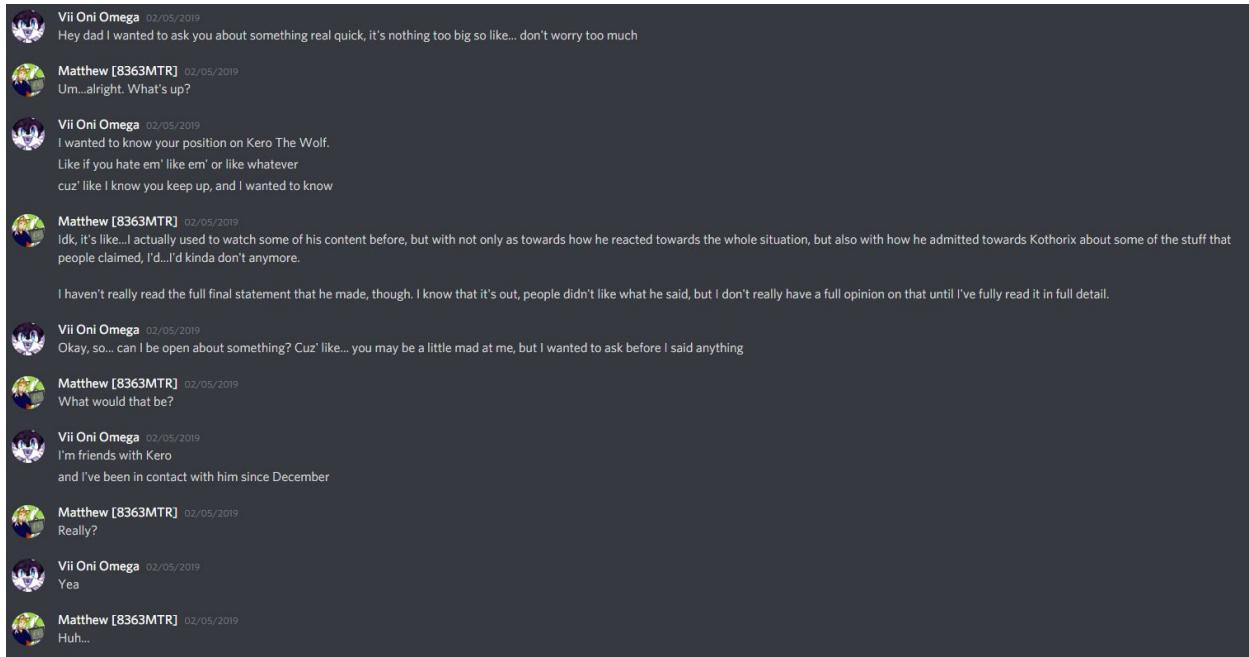

Now, I want to make this clear. I say potential because I don't know if he's still in contact with Kero to this day, but if he is, then it's still disheartening/appalling to see, especially when a twitter account by the name of Archive the Wolf (@KeroArchive) has been posting new evidence/clearing out some confusion of some other notes within the chat that was leaked that can further prove that Kero's just as guilty as those within that Telegram chat.

Below are some screenshots of the conversation that I had with Vii about the subject (Don't ask me about him calling me dad, it was some cringy inside joke about him calling me and my boyfriend Boonslayer dad...because we've adopted him or something...idk...it's been a while). I don't have any screenshots of Kero being on the server nor do I have a recording of him considering that Vii deleted the private server before the overall mess that he did on Twitter, so unfortunately, you will have to take my word on it. Hopefully, this will shed some more light on not just what Vii did to both Jonie and Neko Koda, but also to how he wanted to treat Kero in a positive light.

Vii, if you're for whatever reading this, with all of the stuff that you did to Jonie, to Neko Koda, to me and some of the people in the Cloud Palace via your toxic behavior, etc, you need actual professional help and potentially turn yourself in for the stuff that you did with Jonie. You also should reconsider hanging out with Kero if you're still talking to him and tell him to get actual professional help/turn himself in, too.

In short, however, stay the fuck away from me, my boyfriend, and my other friends, especially to those that don't want to associate with you anymore.

The Screenshots:

 Vii Oni Omega 02/05/2019
It does make sense yea.

Honestly I get it. With him he has been trying what he can to wheem himself off of it, and at worst, it is just something that he takes interest in is how I see it. As long as it is fantasy, that's all that matters to me. It doesn't really change his personality and it doesn't change the kind of person he is. At least in my view.

 Matthew [8363MTR] 02/05/2019
Oh god, here comes the questions. I'm sorry, but my curiosity is strong with me.

Is it actually true that the police are looking at this?
Also, did he say anything about looking for help, if he tries to find one/can afford one?

 Vii Oni Omega 02/05/2019
Yes the police have been looking into this. Currently the case is still going. Although more is pointing to him being innocent mostly due to the shady atmosphere of these logs and due to how long ago this is. Furthermore, he hasn't mentioned anything to me about getting help. However I have been helping him out every step of the way.
Personally I want to bring him into the play pen when the case is over.
And I don't care about the vote. He has lost everything and pretty much everyone except from you and Buddy know about this.
Maybe Ward too

 Matthew [8363MTR] 02/05/2019
Does anyone know as towards how long it will be until the case will be closed?

 Vii Oni Omega 02/05/2019
We don't know how long it will be.
But what we do know is, is that it is close to ending.
I don't want to give out too much information on the case as it isn't my place.
However
I don't like how the police have handled this situation.
And Kero better be pressing charges after this is all done.

 Matthew [8363MTR] 02/05/2019
Charges to those who made the claims?
Or the police?

 Vii Oni Omega 02/05/2019
No the department.
Considering that what they have been doing here and there have actually not been to code.
But still, Kero currently is working at another job and well... we're waiting for the case to be done
He has recently not been talking as much as well... work and all of that but... I know he's at least okay

(This last one is the pic that Vii showed me)